

Add a section to a page

A page is a stack of sections. Add a new one for a row of services, a team strip or reviews, then fill it with your own words and photos.

A page is built from sections stacked from top to bottom. Each section holds one or more columns, and each column holds your widgets: text, photos, buttons. Add a section when you want a new block on the page, such as a row of services, your team, or customer quotes.

Steps

1. Log in to your site editor and open the page.
2. Move your mouse between two sections. Click +Add Section when it appears.
3. In the side panel, click Flex Sections.
4. Click the section you like.
5. Click Save.
6. Replace the sample words and photos with your own.
7. Publish. If you don't see a Publish button, tell us and we'll publish it for you.

Want the editor's AI assistant to draft one for you? See Add a section with AI.

Add a column to a section

1. Click a column that is already in the section.
2. In the small floating menu, click the three dots icon, then Add column. Or use the plus icon on the column's left or right edge.

A section can hold up to 8 columns. To copy a column, click it and use the Duplicate icon. The copy appears on its right. To remove one, click the Delete icon. A section always keeps at least one column.

How it fits together

- Widgets live inside columns. You can't drop a widget straight into a section.
- If you can't click the section or column you want, click a widget inside it, then use the names shown in its small menu to step up to the column or section.
- To delete a whole section, right-click it and click Delete.

Tips

- Start from a ready-made section when you can. It's quicker to swap in your own words than to build from nothing.
- Check the phone view after you add a section. See Check how your site looks on a phone.
- If the gap above or below the section looks off, see Add blank space between sections.
